

19
Fayssoux Collection
Catalog number 164
1860,1878

Box 5
Folder 164

6 items

HIDDEN TREASURE SOUGHT

LOOKING FOR THE HILBERTS' LOST
WILLIAM WALKER'S LOST.

Following the American Expedition to the Isle of Pines, Cuba, the discovery of the treasure was made under the guidance of a chart that Walker had made.

LEONARD, Ohio, Nov. 8.—When Gen. William Walker, the world-famous filibuster, died, the cause of his death was the discovery of the treasure that had been his life's work.

William Walker, who was born with a vision, and that that vision was the discovery of the treasure that had been his life's work.

Walker had been in the habit of writing to his friends, and he had been in the habit of writing to his friends.

Walker had been in the habit of writing to his friends, and he had been in the habit of writing to his friends.

Walker had been in the habit of writing to his friends, and he had been in the habit of writing to his friends.

Walker had been in the habit of writing to his friends, and he had been in the habit of writing to his friends.

Walker had been in the habit of writing to his friends, and he had been in the habit of writing to his friends.

WALKER'S GOLD.

A California Who Claims to Know All About the Spills of Twenty Churches.

Correspondence of the Los Angeles, Cal., Herald.

My attention was called to an article in the Herald of New York, concerning a vast amount of treasure alleged to have been buried in the island of New Orleans, and I was naturally interested in the story.

A story relative of Col. McQueen, who lives here, told me that he had been in the habit of writing to his friends, and he had been in the habit of writing to his friends.

Walker had been in the habit of writing to his friends, and he had been in the habit of writing to his friends.

Walker had been in the habit of writing to his friends, and he had been in the habit of writing to his friends.

Walker had been in the habit of writing to his friends, and he had been in the habit of writing to his friends.

Walker had been in the habit of writing to his friends, and he had been in the habit of writing to his friends.

Walker had been in the habit of writing to his friends, and he had been in the habit of writing to his friends.

Walker had been in the habit of writing to his friends, and he had been in the habit of writing to his friends.

Walker had been in the habit of writing to his friends, and he had been in the habit of writing to his friends.

THE DAILY DISCOURSE.

Published by the Daily Discourse.

Published by the Daily Discourse.

Published by the Daily Discourse.

Published by the Daily Discourse.

Published by the Daily Discourse.

Published by the Daily Discourse.

Published by the Daily Discourse.

Published by the Daily Discourse.

Published by the Daily Discourse.

Published by the Daily Discourse.

Published by the Daily Discourse.