New Orleans & Ohio Telegraph Lessees.

The public are notified, that, in order to guard against mistakes in the transmission of messages, every message of importance ought to be repeated, by being sent back from the station at which it is to be received to the station from which it is originally sent. Half the usual price for transmission will be charged for repeating the message. This Company will not be responsible for mistakes or delays in the transmission or delivery of suspended messages, from whatever cause they may arise; nor will it be responsible for damages arising from such mistakes or delays in the transmission or delivery of a repeated message, beyond an amount not exceeding two hundred times the amount paid for sending the message; nor will it be responsible for delays arising from interruptions in the working of its Telegraph, nor for any mistake or omission of any other Company over whom their message is to be sent to reach the place of destination. All messages will hereafter be received by this Company for transmission, subject to the above conditions.
